Statement Regarding the Temporary Discoloration of Water Supplied by Trenton Water Works

On Saturday, Trenton Water Works adjusted the point of entry treatment method at its water filtration plant to correct the discoloration of water supplied to parts of South Trenton. Also, Trenton Water Works continues to flush the system by opening fire hydrants within the impacted area. Since taking these steps, there have been no reports of discolored water reported by TWW customers. Water supplied by Trenton Water Works is sourced from the Delaware River. TWW uses methods that meet and even exceed industry standards to enhance the quality of the water supplied to its 64,000 customers.
